

Saigon Says Army Captures Third Central District Town

SAIGON, July 28 (AP)—South Vietnamese infantrymen were reported to have recaptured a third district town on the central coast today, as retreating North Vietnamese troops engaged another government force in house-to-house fighting a few miles away.

U.S. Admits Bombs Hit 12 Dike Sites

No specific number of bomb hits at these 12 locations was given, but State Department officials said the numbers of craters at each site generally "can be counted on the fingers of one hand." Officials declined to make public the photographs accompanying the report, on grounds that this would encourage North Vietnam to release, or "contribute," its own "counter-photographs."

"Because a large number of North Vietnamese dikes serve as bases for roadways, the more they create throughout the [Red River] delta makes it almost inevitable that air attacks directed against transportation targets cause scattered damage to dikes."

The bomb craters verified by photography can be repaired easily with a minimum of local labor and equipment—a crew of less than 50 men with wheelbarrows and hand tools could repair in a day the largest crater observed. Repairs to all the dikes could be completed within a week.

Most important, the State Department said, the report showed that all damage observed was southwest of Hanoi and some 200 miles from the exposed capital where the height of dikes reaches 40 feet with some dikes "80 feet at the flood line and spread to 200 feet at the base." This would be the obvious area for attack, U.S. experts say, if there was a deliberate plan to knock out the dikes and flood the countryside.

Hanoi Answers Nixon

PARIS, July 28 (UPI)—North Vietnam today accused President Nixon of trying to "divide responsibility" when he denied yesterday that the United States was systematically destroying North Vietnam's flood dikes.

In a statement from its Paris peace talks delegation, North Vietnam said: "Mr. Nixon once again resorted to sophisticated allegations in an attempt to justify the U.S. policy of aggression and neo-colonialism in Vietnam and to elude responsibility for the intentional U.S. bombings against the dikes and dams of North Vietnam."

At an impromptu news conference yesterday in Washington, the President had said that the United States should be praised for exercising restraint in its bombing policy. He said that the Communists were guilty of "a hypocritical double standard" in charging that the United States was destroying their dikes.

Mao Is Reported to Confirm Lin's Plot, Death in Air Crash

(Continued from Page 1) the former defense minister "infiltrating" his partisans into the key organs of state power. Thus fortified, the chairman said, the 64-year-old his apparent broke ranks with the leadership on a number of domestic and foreign issues, including the decision to seek a normalization of relations with the United States.

The chairman is reported to have said that another policy opposed by Mr. Lin was the move to rebuild the Communist party apparatus, which had been shattered by the Cultural Revolution. The implication, left moot by the chairman, is that Mr. Lin saw the party's rebuilding as a threat to the power of the army, which had moved into a position of commanding authority in civilian life.

In his talks, the chairman is said to have dated the beginning of the actual conspiracy as December, 1970. This would be shortly after the election of the first provincial party committee to be established after the Cultural Revolution, in Hunan, and almost exactly coincident with the chairman's last meeting with American author Edgar Snow, who gave the world its first intimation of the startling developments afoot in Sino-U.S. relations when he quoted the chairman as saying that he would be happy to meet President Nixon.

Mao Backs Chou

As quoted by the diplomats, the Chinese leader told his recent visitors that he had decided by the end of 1970 to throw all his authority behind Premier Chou En-lai, thereby countering attempts of Mr. Lin and his partisans to "manipulate" the party's 170-member Central Committee.

But this, apparently, was not enough. Mr. Lin then moved ahead with his "plot" against the government force in house-to-house fighting a few miles away.

Field informants said about 1,000 government troops had moved into the district town of Hoa An, meeting "very light resistance" and ending a three-month occupation by enemy troops.

North Vietnamese troops who left the area last night ran into another government unit on the outskirts of Bong Son, a district town five miles to the northeast. Hundreds of civilians fled when house-to-house fighting began, a witness said. The South Vietnamese were said to be "holding their own."

A South Vietnamese drive through the northern part of Binh Dinh Province on the central coast has recaptured three district towns—Bong Son, Tam Quan and Hoa An—in 10 days. But spokesmen here said it was impossible to tell how much territory around the towns is under government control and how much remains in enemy hands.

At the provincial capital of Quang Tri, where government marines have replaced paratroopers who suffered heavy casualties in an unsuccessful assault on the city, the marines battled enemy units outside the fortress walls.

The U.S. command, meanwhile, announced the death of a senior American official in an ambush in the Mekong Delta, 25 miles southwest of Saigon. He was identified as Rudolph Kaiser, 53, of Colorado Springs, Colo., the senior adviser in Go Cong Province.

Go Cong Province is considered to be one of the most secure in South Vietnam and Mr. Kaiser and some militiamen were investigating reports that a Viet Cong battalion had moved into the northwestern corner of the province, where the ambush occurred.

Retired in 1964

Mr. Kaiser came to Vietnam with the U.S. Army in 1962, retired as a lieutenant colonel in 1964 and stayed on in a variety of civilian advisory roles.

In Cambodia, the government reported a series of clashes about 20 miles south of Phnom Penh, and listed its casualties as five dead and five wounded.

A Cambodian fighter-bomber was shot down during the three-hour battle but managed to land in friendly territory, the command said. There was no report on enemy casualties.

McGovern View Backed

HONG KONG, July 28 (Reuters)—A Hanoi official has stated that Sen. George McGovern's stand on Vietnam could lead to a settlement of the war, the North Vietnamese News Agency reported today.

It quoted Ngo Dien, a Foreign Ministry official, as saying yesterday that the senator's position "contains positive elements which would lead to a correct, peaceful settlement of the Vietnam problem in accordance with the legitimate aspiration of the American people for an early cessation of the war of aggression in Vietnam."

Graphic as it was, the chairman's account left a number of important questions unanswered. It did not, for example, reveal how the chairman's alleged plan to "assassinate" Chairman Mao was followed by the crash. Finally, it made no mention of certain key military leaders who disappeared along with Mr. Lin, including Huang Yung-sheng, the chief of staff of the armed forces; Wu Fa-hsien, the air force commander; Li Tsu-ping, first political commissar of the navy; and Chien Hui-tso, deputy chief of staff of the army and head of the logistics department.

For the moment, however, it is the chairman's decision to break the official silence on the affair, rather than the questions he left unanswered, that is commanding the attention of observers here. Already, word of his remarks has passed down the ranks of the party and there is speculation that an outright denunciation of Mr. Lin in the press may not be far away.

So far, the only references to the affair in the press have been indirect, although it would require no great feat of imagination on the part of readers to determine roughly what happened. Stories published in recent months have told of plots, of close comrades-in-arms who betray their leaders, and of people in the army who have been reluctant to accept the authority of the party—all of this without a single reference to the man who for nearly 30 months has been the officially designated heir to the leadership of China.

EEC Entry Effects on Malta Discussed by Mintoff, Heath

LONDON, July 28 (Reuters)—Malta's relations with an enlarged European Common Market figured in two days of friendly talks which Prime Minister Dom Mintoff concluded here today with senior British ministers.

Mr. Mintoff had an 80-minute discussion with British Prime Minister Edward Heath tonight and informed British sources said that it ranged over Mediterranean, Middle Eastern and Asian developments.

Mr. Mintoff and British ministers examined the implications for the Maltese economy and trade posed by the enlargement of the six-nation European Economic Community, which Britain, Denmark, Norway and Ireland are due to join on Jan. 1.

Malta has a preferential trade agreement with the Common Market. It has to be adapted before the end of the year to take into account the enlargement of the European community. Mr. Mintoff has asked the community to widen the scope of this agreement. He wants it to include Maltese agricultural exports to the community, assistance in the establishment of new industries and acceptance of Malta as a beneficiary under the community's generalized preference program.

EEC Commission Visit

A delegation of the EEC Commission recently visited Malta and is at present preparing a report for the Council of Ministers.

The Mintoff-Heath meeting was attended by Lord Carrington, British defense minister, with whom the Maltese leader yesterday discussed the detailed implementation of the Anglo-Maltese defense agreement concluded in March.

Under the accord, Britain will continue to use the military bases on the island. In return, Britain and other NATO countries are paying Malta an annual rental of £14 million, of which the British share is £5.25 million.

Sources said that British ministers had undertaken to examine the question of the effects on Malta of the floating of the pound. Mr. Mintoff had raised this problem and the British government said that it would get in touch with the Maltese government after studying the situation.

Mideast Assessment

Mr. Mintoff gave British ministers his assessment on Middle East developments. He has close and friendly relations with Libya, British ministers also were interested in his recent visit to Peking for talks with Chinese ministers. Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the foreign and Commonwealth secretary, who had long talks with Mr. Mintoff yesterday, will make his first visit to China in late October.

Senators Votes to Bar Rain, Fire as Weapons

WASHINGTON, July 28 (Reuters)—The Senate today voted to cut off Defense Department funds for any use of rainmaking or creation of forest fires as a weapon of war.

The amendment voted on today was sponsored by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D. Wis., a leading environmentalist. He and Sen. Claiborne Pell, D. R.I., chairman of a Foreign Relations subcommittee which held hearings on the subject earlier this week, have charged the administration with conducting rainmaking operations in Laos.

French Communists Criticize Czechoslovak Political Trials

PARIS, July 28 (Reuters)—France's powerful and traditionally Moscow-aligned Communist party today issued a carefully worded statement criticizing the political trials being held in Czechoslovakia.

It was the first official criticism of Czechoslovak developments by the French Communist party—Western Europe's second largest—since an initial critical reaction to the 1968 intervention in Czechoslovakia by Soviet and Warsaw Pact forces.

To date 28 persons have been sentenced since the continuing trials against liberals began in Czechoslovakia 11 days ago. They apparently are aimed at stamping out active opposition to Czechoslovak Communist party leader Gustav Husak, who took over from the liberal Alexander Dubcek.

The statement said: "When forces hostile to socialism resort to subversion, violence or sabotage, it is just and necessary that these forces be punished according to the law."

But according to information which we have at our disposal, these trials are not aimed against such activities.

"When it is a matter of political or ideological opposition, one should move forward by means of an intense political struggle," it added.

The statement, given to reporters by Georges Marchais, deputy secretary-general of the party, will be published in the party daily newspaper, L'Humanite, tomorrow.

The French party's attitude to developments in Czechoslovakia has been a major irritant in its relations with the French Socialist party. The two parties recently concluded an agreement to form a joint front for legislative elections next year.

Exile's Bid to Miss Davis

LONDON, July 28 (Reuters)—A former leading Czechoslovak Communist today appealed to U.S. Negro Communist Angela Davis to demand the withdrawal of Soviet troops from his country as well as of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Jiri Pelikan, former director of Czechoslovak television and a former member of the country's parliament, made his appeal in an open letter published in the Times. He has been living in exile since 1968.

He also called on Miss Davis, who was found not guilty in a recent Communist trial condemned as "political" in Communist countries, to demand the release of political prisoners everywhere, including Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union.

"You may say there is a big difference between American military aggression in Vietnam and the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia. I agree and that is why our people did not defend itself in arms," he said, referring to the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Headed Appropriations Panel

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, 81, Senior Senate Member, Dies

By Martin Weil

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UPI).—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, 81, died last night at Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland. The Louisiana Democrat was chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee and senior member of the Senate in age and length of service.

Once a floor leader for former Gov. Huey Long in the Louisiana House of Representatives, Sen. Ellender served six terms in the Senate, beginning in 1937, and was campaigning for a seventh when he died.

Waging a tough fight for victory in the Aug. 19 Democratic primary, the colorful legislator had spent 12 hours on Wednesday seeking votes in Monroe, La., making three speeches and shaking scores of hands. Although he began complaining of stomach pains Wednesday, he boarded a private plane yesterday to fly here to cast his vote on an agriculture appropriations measure.

When the pains grew worse, he visited the Capitol physician and was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he died in the cardiac care unit. Hospital spokesmen listed the cause of death as cardiac arrest.

J. Bennett Johnston Jr., Sen. Ellender's principal opponent in the Louisiana primary, canceled a speaking engagement after learning of his rival's death.

Senate Adjourns

The death of Sen. Ellender, who was president pro tempore of the Senate, was announced in the upper house last night by Louisiana's junior senator, Russell B. Long, also a Democrat. A few minutes later the Senate adjourned in a gesture of respect.

Observers predicted that Sen. John McClellan, D., Ark., would give up his current chairmanship of the Government Operations Committee to succeed Sen. Ellender as chairman of the appropriations panel.

In a statement issued by the White House last night, President Nixon led official Washington in paying tribute to Sen. Ellender. The President called him "a good friend, a fine senator and a splendid American."

"He left a deep imprint on the legislative history of this century —and he proved himself a representative not only of Louisiana but of the nation, determined to do what he considered was right for America," the President said.

Mr. Nixon will fly to Louisiana Monday to attend the funeral of Sen. Ellender at Houma, where the senator lived most of his life. The White House announced that Mr. Nixon also will take along key members of the Senate.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D., Mont., the majority leader, praised Sen. Ellender as "a workhorse" and Sen. John C. Stennis, D., Miss., said, "People will benefit—yes, even for a century—from his fine, hard work."

Some observers, citing Sen. Ellender's dapper dress, his Louisiana background and the delight he took in holding an annual banquet featuring Louisiana food for the nation's top officials, called him one of the last of the Senate's old-style Southern politicians.

But the range of positions he took in his 36-year Capitol Hill career made him difficult to categorize. Early in his career, one journalist described him as "a relentless Southerner but sometimes supporter of the New Deal." In recent years, while expressing steadfast determination to keep the nation strong, he began to ask whether relations with the Soviet Union could not be improved and to question some of

Eastland Named To Senate Post Held by Ellender

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—Sen. James O. Eastland, D., Miss., was elected president pro tempore of the Senate today, succeeding Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana.

The election of Sen. Eastland, 67, was by voice vote at the start of the day's Senate session, following Sen. Ellender's death of a heart attack last night.

Senate Democrats designated Sen. Eastland, as their senior member, at a party caucus shortly before the Senate met.

The Republican leader, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, went through the formality of nominating Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, the senior GOP member of the Senate, for the post of president pro tempore.

This was defeated by voice vote and the Senate then approved the resolution offered by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana nominating Sen. Eastland.

By Michael Getler

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UPI).—An attempt to slow the Defense Department timetable for producing a $13.5-billion fleet of Trident missile-firing submarines fell short in the Senate yesterday by a 47-39 vote.

The Nixon administration thereby won the most critical test of its nuclear-weapons policies since the arms limitation pact with the Soviet Union was concluded in May.

The vote came on an amendment that would have cut $508 million from the $966.4 million requested for the Trident submarine in the $20.5-billion military procurement bill for fiscal 1973. Money for the submarine has already been approved by the House of Representatives.

The supporters of the amendment argued that they were not opposed to eventually building the Trident, or something like it, but that the administration, already faced with a big budget deficit, had not made a "clear or compelling" case for speeding the project beyond the research and development stage now.

Polaris Fleet Cited

The senators said the U.S. fleet of 41 Polaris and Poseidon subs, which the Trident will replace, is virtually invulnerable to Soviet attack and could remain so for many years. And, said Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D., Texas, the amendment's sponsor, "the most conservative and pessimistic estimates" show that "none of these submarines should require replacement until 1981."

That is when the original plan would have produced the first Trident sub. Under the accelerated plan, it will be ready by 1976.

But the argument of the opponents really focused on the question of whether the administration may be making a military mistake by settling on the announced 24-missile design of the Trident.

U.S. and Soviet subs now carry 16 missiles each. Since the arms treaty limits the United States to 44 submarines and 710 missiles and the Soviet Union to 62 submarines and 950 missiles, senators expressed fears that the United States, by producing the Trident, might wind up with far fewer submarines than it is allowed.

The argument has taken on importance since it was disclosed in May that the Soviet Union is building some new submarines to carry 12 missiles each. Fewer missiles on each sub would mean more submarines to try to destroy in wartime.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D., Wash., who voted against the amendment, produced a letter from Secretary of the Navy John Warner saying that the number of missiles on each submarine could be changed before the fall of 1973.

the rationale for increasing the size of the defense establishment.

Born in the town of Montegut, La., in Terrebonne Parish, Sen. Ellender received his law degree from Tulane University, New Orleans, then entered public service in 1913 as city attorney for Houma. Supply of Heroin Has Dwindled on U.S. East Coast

NEW YORK, July 28 (NYT).—The supply of heroin for East Coast addicts has declined sharply in the last year, sending the price of the drug soaring, according to officials of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

In some cities the wholesale price of heroin almost doubled during the 12 months ended last June 30, according to a report circulating within the bureau, and the purity of the heroin being sold has dropped by as much as 40 percent.

Daniel P. Casey, the bureau's regional director here, yesterday attributed the heroin shortage to the increased effectiveness of the French in closing heroin laboratories, the rise in seizures of the drug here and improved performance by law-enforcement officials against drug dealers.

Although a shortage of heroin exists in all major cities on the East Coast, bureau officials said, the extent of the shortage varies among cities.

The shortage is probably most acute in Boston, where the wholesale price for a gram of pure heroin has almost doubled, to $785 from $413 a year ago, according to the bureau report.

Ginzburg Wins U.S. Parole, De Sapio Must Finish Term

By David E. Rosenbaum

WASHINGTON, July 28 (NYT).—The U.S. Parole Board granted parole yesterday to Ralph Ginzburg, the former publisher of Eros magazine, who had been convicted of sending obscene material through the mail.

The board denied parole to Carmine G. De Sapio, the former leader of Tammany Hall, the New York County Democratic organization.

Ginzburg, 42, will be released from prison Oct. 11 after serving eight months of a three-year sentence.

He was found guilty in U.S. District Court in Philadelphia in 1963 of violating an 1872 law against pornography. After years of appeals, the Supreme Court upheld the decision by a 5-to-4 vote and, at the time, created the doctrine of "pandering."

Under that doctrine the court said, Ginzburg could be prosecuted because he advertised the sexual aspects of Eros and other publications. The "pandering" standard had not been applied before and has not been used since.

Bribery Case

De Sapio, 63, was convicted in December, 1969, of conspiring to bribe James I. Marcus, a former New York City water commissioner.

De Sapio's two-year sentence expires in January, 1973, and the board said it would not hear another request for parole. He and Ginzburg are both in the federal prison camp at Allenwood, Pa.

In other actions yesterday, the board granted parole to Alben W. B. Truitt, grandson of former Vice-President Alben Barkley, and denied parole to Richmond M. Flowers, the former attorney general of Alabama.

Truitt, 38, is serving a 20-year term for kidnapping and hijacking. He hijacked a light plane and forced the pilot to take him to Cuba in 1968.

Flowers, 53, was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 for extortion and conspiracy in the awarding of state contracts.

The board said it would review his sentence again in August, 1973. Flowers went to prison in April, 1971.

Wife of Broker Abducted Near Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, July 28 (AP).—The socialite wife of H.C. Piper Jr., millionaire head of a brokerage and investment firm, was kidnapped yesterday from her home near here, the FBI reported.

"When they get in touch with me, I certainly plan to cooperate in any way they want," Mr. Piper, 54, said a few hours after his wife, Virginia, 49, was abducted.

Mr. Piper, board chairman of Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood, Inc., said the two kidnappers left a ransom note, but he declined to reveal how much money they wanted. "I just can't tell you that because it would very possibly jeopardize Mrs. Piper's chances. It would be very unwise. They said they would get in touch again."

The FBI, which was called into the case, refused to comment on a news broadcast by a Minneapolis television station which said that the ransom demanded was rumored to be $1 million.

Police said two men wearing masks and gloves entered the Piper home in suburban Orono shortly after noon yesterday, handcuffed Mrs. Piper and tied up two housekeepers. It took the servants about an hour to get free and notify police.

"Acupuncture is an important thing that has to be looked into," said Dr. Howard P. Jenkinson, special assistant to the director of NIH's National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

"We are now committed to starting a significant investigation of it," Dr. Jenkinson said. The announcement was made by Dr. Robert Q. "After considering the many suggested uses of acupuncture," Dr. Marston said, "the committee recommended that the most valuable first approach be in the United States would be studies on the methods used for surgical anesthesia and for the alleviation of certain chronic pain syndromes."

Accordingly, Dr. Marston said, two major workshops will be convened early this autumn, one for each of the two major uses of the technique. Doctors and scientists will be invited to present information and assess the need for further studies. They also are expected to discuss the ethical and legal questions involved in acupuncture experiments on human patients.

Dr. Marston also directed three units of his agency to participate in the investigation: the National Institute of General Medical Sciences, the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke and the Fogarty International Center.

PARIS FASHIONS

Themes to Remember the Collections By

By Hebe Dorsey

PARIS, July 28 (IHT)—St-though Ungaro and Givenchy saved the day for Paris couture, on the whole, the press and buyers agree that the collections have been low-keyed, even this side of dull.

Despite the apathy and the so-called "new attitude," the Paris collections did have a number of recurrent themes running through them that did, in the end, give a general picture with some impact.

But the suspense, the revolutionary lines that used to make headlines over the world are gone. The last attempt, the mid-fiasco, made it clear that women have become a restive, independent lot whom the couturiers are now handling gingerly. Even so, the several ideas that did come out of the shows this week had the polish that only haute couture offers.

These were some of the strongest trends:

The skirt is back, but the prettiest ones tend to look like separates with the jacket in plaid, tweed or checked fabric over a pleated skirt. Another variety is gray flannel, but charcoal gray somehow looks wrong. Pale gray flannel looks right and, still better, and younger looking is double-faced flannel with the inside bright red, green or blue.

Shirred waists are an important detail. Many designers used them, but they were most frequent at Ungaro.

T-Shaped Silhouette

Generally speaking, women are in for a T-shaped silhouette with cap-sleeved coats or raglan, kimono or batwing sleeves. Even when the sleeves are set normally, the shoulders are good and square and the armholes deep and wide. The three-quarter topcoat with full swinging back is another indication that fashion is moving away from the tight, skimpy look that women had come to love.

If the clothes have a fuller, looser and gentler look, it is also due, of course, to the fabrics. Even Courrèges has taken the starch out of his clothes. The newest fabrics are of the fuzzy variety—brushed wools, mohairs, angoras and cashmere. The freshest pattern is in the gingham type.

Shirred waists (Ungaro)

of checks, and it turns up everywhere, from vinyl at Courrèges to refined printed cashmeres at Ungaro.

The bright, bright colors and print explosion often make you think of summer rather than winter clothes. The Paris couturiers, who used to have a penchant for dark and murky colors, have happily switched to peppy red, canary blue and kelly green. This has brought back the cheerful red coat that one loves to wear in winter.

Prints vary from tiny geometrics to florals. Givenchy had daring, huge panthers on fabric. Ungaro offered the most poetic combinations of dots and naive flowers which were dreamed up by his collaborator Sonia Knapp.

Shape of Pants

Despite the rumor that Paris couturiers were tired of pants (many of them feel that pants belong in the boutique anyway), the collections are still full of pants suits and even evening pajamas. But shapes vary. Givenchy likes them nice and skinny. Ungaro cuts them very wide—but makes sure to taper them over the thighs, a slenderizing detail that most women will appreciate.

The colored canvas raincoat, which Ungaro introduced a couple of years ago, is now everywhere in the bois de rose, aqua or mild orange.

The fox box is a peppy note in a seasonally subdued season in which very little was produced in the way of accessories, hats or hairdos. The only interesting hairdos were at Givenchy and included a huge pageboy caught in a net of tiny criss-crossing braids.

So the season was not a total disaster. The buyers are not going home as empty-handed as seemed likely at the beginning of the week.

But the press feels different about coming back to the couturiers. Prices have gone up, the number of designers has gone down (with Saint Laurent and Cardin out of the picture) and the whole scene has weakened considerably.

The big question many are now raising is: "Is Paris worth the trip in January?" Among those writers who are considering staying at home are Eugenia Sleepers, Bernadine Morris of The New York Times, Klen Epstein of the Washington Star and Ruby Graham of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

LONDON THEATER

Living's Bawdy Invention 'Finest Family in the Land'

By John Walker

LONDON, July 28 (IHT)—Henry Living's is one of those writers—Peter Terson and John Arden are others—who largely ignore, and so are ignored by London audiences, who are capable of a snobbish insularity. So, considering it is eight years since his "Blast" was produced—it was a New York Obie Award winner a couple of seasons ago—it is worth uttering a few cries of joy over his "The Finest Family in the Land" which has now taken up residence at the Theatre Workshop, Stratford East, directed by the author.

The play is not Living's at his best, but it is good enough to be going on with. "The Finest Family" consists of familiar figures in North Country farce: intellectual father (Brian Murphy), shrewish mother (Eileen Kennedy), idiot son (Griffith Davies), and beautiful lodger (Clare Sutcliffe). They have locked themselves out of their flat, at the top of a high-rise block, and are importuned by the lodger's boyfriend, Ponce Weatherby, a seaman anxious to persuade them into prostitution in France. "I shall be between here and Brest," he says with a leer.

Mr. Living's dialogue is full of such bawdy invective. ("I think I prefer cucumber sandwiches. At least they stay crisp to the end," says the wife). But the action is static. It is pleasant to watch the author finding fresh reasons for keeping the family shut out of their flat, especially after a few becomes available, but, with only five characters to play with, his reasons grow desperate towards the end.

The evening moves in fits and laughs. If overall the play is unsatisfactory, at any one moment it is likely to be hilarious. When the flow of fun slackens, the acting of the Theatre Workshop regulars carries it on. Brian Murphy gives another superb study of a timorous downtrodden male, clutching the tattered remnants of his chivalry, him with an attempt, as, once again, his time way.

Maxwell Shaw, too, as the dreadful Ponce, a weird mixture of Kean and Dale Carnegie as he plays his superiority, I am sure the moment when, on the floor to kiss the a handkerchief, he snatches madly at a similar—I have animal cunning.

When R. C. Sheriff's "End" was revived at the two months ago, I was not to be surprised history repeating itself play once again taking by storm as it did the last production in 1969 now transferred to the Theatre. Perfectly acted, faultlessly played, not to be missed.

At the Victoria Palace are twice daily matinee entertainment for children, "Rupert Show," based on cartoon adventures of what priggish bear who is a British favorite for 50 years.

I took along a 4-year-old to explain the difficult and the satirical nature of the play. He left his children in the hands of the author, who will find it fairly jolly a better than other British in town. There is not will upset the most although I felt the lack in his and boo.

half of the show, wit and his animal friends, wood, is far superior to and in the court of Cole, which is full of old English lusher, "Trelawny," the B.Vic's musical version of "Trelawny of the Wells" the Prince of Wales on

$1 Million for Paperback

NEW YORK, July 28 (NYT)—Paperback rights to "I'm O.K.—You're O.K.," a layman's guide to self-analysis by Dr. Thomas A. Harris, have been sold by Harper & Row to Avon books for $1 million. That figure is believed to be the highest for the reprint sale of a single book in publishing history.

But in the book trade no record is ever secure. And the Macmillan Company is currently auctioning Richard Bach's "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," a fable for adults about a freedom-loving bird, to major paperback houses for a minimum of $1 million. Coincidentally, both books were published more than two years ago to virtually no critical notice. Then, in the mysterious ways of books, about three months ago they showed up on best-seller lists—"Seagull" soaring to the top in fiction, while "I'm O.K.—You're O.K." was moving up in the nonfiction list.

The sale of the two sleepers, whose publishers—fortunately for them—retained reprint rights long after hard-cover publication, has aroused more talk in the book industry than anything since the phenomenal success of Eric Segal's "Love Story," also a Harper & Row book.

ART MARKET

Auction of Photographs Reveals the Victorian Vision

By Souren Melikian

LONDON (UPI)—The 19th-century photographer had no way of transforming the reality before his eyes, nor did he want to. Nonetheless, in his pictures, he necessarily reflected the aesthetic approach of his period by selecting his own "realities."

This is what made the sale of Victorian photographs at Christie's on July 13 so interesting. It was, in addition, a landmark, the first auction in a major European saleroom devoted exclusively to photographs.

Almost all the pictures in the sale were made by English photographers. Spokesman for Christie's could not say whether the negatives of these prints still existed. However, it seems unlikely. The chances are that only one or two prints of the portraits were ever made. The concern for negatives is a 20th-century concept.

The 78 lots, several including up to 63 photographs covered a wide range of subjects and provided outstanding documentation of the aesthetics of the second half of the 19th century, a vital period in art history.

Julia Margaret Cameron's portrait of Sir John Herschel, which sold for £273 at Christie's painting. Taking Cameron again as an example, two of her more expensive pictures were very close to the scenes favored by painters: "Queen Philippa Interceding for the Burghers of Calais" (11 by 9 inches), £22, and a lot consisting of "A Study of the Beatrice Cenci" (May Prinsep posing) and "Mary Mother," £24.

Landscapes

Landscapes would seem to be still inexpensive. A fascinating series of British landscapes and village scenes by Frank Meadow Sutcliffe, offered some of the best bargains. Sutcliffe, characteristically enough, was the son of the painter Thomas Sutcliffe. He lived and worked most of his life in Whithy, Yorkshire. He began to exhibit in the 1880s and retired in 1923. His style was naturalistic, but had all the quality of feeling that is prominently lacking in the painting of the period and which, unfortunately, the photographer's eye had in the mood of the French painter Millet, was cheap at £21.

So was a view of a fishing village at £23. A group of girls in late Victorian costumes was the most expensive Sutcliffe print at £33—a price due to the documentary value of the photo. Whithy Harbor, one of the photographer's earliest essays, was bought for a song (£16), and a great portrait of an old man was equally cheap at £23.

These "low" prices, all far above what such work used to fetch in Portobello Road, at the London Flea Market, or in junk shops, will probably rise in the future. The field will remain open to connoisseurs with little money discernment because the appreciation of 19th-century photography requires a triple and not too common knowledge: photographic expertise (which dealers seldom have) to appreciate certain qualities of workmanship, fairly good grounding in the various schools of painting of the period, and, preferably, a wide range of historical documentation to enable the would-be collector to identify the subject matter or sitter in the photograph.

Portraits

The portraits were particularly interesting because they showed the raw material used by the pre-Raphaelites as well as the Barbizon school and the impressionists. This "reality" was the common denominator for all the schools of painting of that period and reveals that a common way of seeing underlies the vast differences of artistic interpretation.

There was a study of a girl seen in a three-quarter view, looking down, her head with long, flowing hair slightly bent forward.

Under Belgrade: Roman Baths

BELGRADE, July 28 (UPI)—Construction workers have unearthed a system of Roman baths dating from the 2d century AD, the national news agency has announced.

Discovery of the baths during building of a new arts college confirmed a theory that downtown Belgrade stands on the residential section of the Roman city of Singidunum.

The baths include a dressing room, rooms for bathing in hot and cold water, three pools and a well. Pottery, lamps, and glass containers were also found along with coins minted with the images of Domitian and Nerva, Roman emperors of the 1st century.

Gravity

The sober gravity of a work such as his heads of Christ and Mary does not exist, at the other end of the spectrum, a vigorous sense of the grotesque, such as appears in the figures of the mocking of Christ or, more unexpectedly, in the unconventional painting of the 14 auxiliary saints with their strong scowling mugs.

An artist with a rich and vivid imagination, Cranach also shows a firm perceptiveness in his portraits. Each of his subjects is revealed with an inward purpose both spiritual and pragmatic. His portraits of Luther and his family are exceptional documents, but perhaps the closest we get to Cranach is in the portrait of an anonymous peasant, a watercolor on loan from the Basel Museum, where the artist's own sensitivity becomes apparent in the sensitivity of pen and brush.

The exhibition closes on Oct. 15.

Criteria

If any criteria can be established about what makes a photograph desirable and therefore more expensive, they must include the photographer's signature and the relationship to pictorial subjects of the period, particularly those of Victorian

Cranach and Dürer were of the same generation and both belonged to that cluster of German artists who received the influence of the Italian Renaissance which they integrated into their own thoroughly personal idiom. But the overwhelming spiritual event of the Germanic world in that period was the Reformation, and Cranach was closely involved with

Eberle Is 'Disappointed'

Japan Talks End in Impasse

Harrison July 28 (WP).—A summit meeting between Japanese Prime Minister Tanaka and U.S. President Nixon ended in a stalemate today, with both sides expressing disappointment.

The two-day summit, which began on Friday, ended with a joint declaration that the two nations have agreed to continue discussions on a variety of issues, including trade, security, and environmental protection.

Mr. Tanaka said that the Japanese government was disappointed that the summit did not result in a formal agreement. He said that the Japanese government was committed to the principles of the summit declaration and would continue to work with the United States to resolve the outstanding issues.

President Nixon said that he was disappointed that the summit did not result in a formal agreement. He said that the summit was a success in that it brought the two nations together and allowed them to discuss the issues in a frank and open manner.

The summit declaration called for the two nations to continue discussions on a variety of issues, including trade, security, and environmental protection. It also called for the two nations to work together to promote peace and stability in the Asia-Pacific region.

EEC Unit Asks More Rules In New Monetary System

BRUSSELS, July 28 (AP)—The European Economic Community (EEC) unit today asked for more rules to govern the new monetary system.

The unit, which is made up of the 12 member states, is currently working on a draft treaty for the new system. The draft treaty calls for the introduction of a single currency, the ECU, and for the establishment of a central bank to manage the system.

The unit is asking for more rules to govern the new system, particularly in the area of exchange rates and the role of the central bank. It is also asking for more rules to govern the relationship between the new system and the existing national currencies.

Gold Surges In U.K. to $68

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—The price of gold in the United Kingdom today surged to a record high of $68 an ounce.

The surge was caused by a combination of factors, including a decline in the value of the pound sterling and a rise in the price of gold in the United States.

The price of gold in the United States today rose to a record high of $375 an ounce. This rise was caused by a combination of factors, including a decline in the value of the dollar and a rise in the price of gold in the United Kingdom.

One Dollar—

LONDON (AP)—The rate of exchange for the dollar in the United Kingdom today fell to a record low of one dollar for 10 pence.

The fall was caused by a combination of factors, including a decline in the value of the pound sterling and a rise in the price of gold in the United States.

German Surplus In Trade Widens During First Half

WIESBADEN, West Germany, July 28 (Reuters).—West Germany's foreign trade surplus narrowed to 1.25 billion Deutsche Marks in June from 1.31 billion in May, but widened during the first half of the year.

The surplus in the first half of the year was 6.85 billion Deutsche Marks, compared with 6.85 billion in the same period last year.

The office said imports rose by 6 percent, or 847 million DM, to 11.2 billion marks in June compared with June 1971, but showed a gain of only 25 million DM, or 0.2 percent, compared with May's figure.

Exports gained 8 percent, or about 850 million DM, to 14.35 billion marks in June compared with the same 1971 month, but in comparison with May this year fell about 55 million marks, or 0.4 percent.

Over the first half, imports increased by 6 percent to 63.4 billion DM while exports rose 7 percent to 71.8 billion marks.

Over the first half year, the current account balance of payments was virtually in equilibrium against a surplus of 500 million marks in the same period last year, according to the estimates.

U.S. Firms Show Profit Upturn

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—U.S. business, with few exceptions, took sizable strides on the road toward earnings recovery in the second quarter. Nevertheless, third-quarter profits are not expected to compare favorably with this year's second quarter, primarily because of a price decline earlier this month.

In addition, the prognosis for the remainder of the year as expressed by executives and analysts is almost uniformly, and often euphorically, favorable.

The survey shows that after-tax profits of 563 concerns rose 12.8 percent in the second quarter from the like 1971 period.

This is not to say, of course, that the entire economy registered gains. For example, profits of steel and petroleum, two huge industries, declined during the last quarter, as did earnings in the aluminum, cement and chain-store categories. But in many of these cases, better news is expected in the near future.

Aided by sales In the period just past, the overall statistical picture was substantially enhanced by the figures of the auto makers. General Motors Corp. reported second-quarter earnings of $252 a share, up from $197 a share last year.

Chrysler doubled 1971's second-quarter earnings, while Ford's profit totaled $282 million, or $2.73 a share, up from $197.8 million, or $1.94 a share, last year.

And American Motors' net income for the June quarter was $14.3 million, or 80 cents a share, up from last year's $7.2 million, or 38 cents a share.

According to observers, at least part of these gains can be attributed to President Nixon's economic policies. But more importantly, the President's program, which includes higher import duties and currency devaluation, has helped Detroit stem the debilitating invasion of foreign cars.

In any case, it is expected that this year's retail sales of automobiles are going to be a record 10.5 million, about nine million of which will be produced by U.S. companies. In 1971, Detroit produced 8.2 million of the 9.7 million cars sold.

Steel Firms Lag Progress in the steel industry has not been so marked. For example, U.S. Steel Corp., the biggest producer, reported a 37.5 percent plunge in second-quarter profit on a 12 percent decline in sales. And many other major producers also reported declines, largely because this year's figures were compared with a period last year when customers were building inventories in view of a threatened strike.

Nevertheless, there is currently some cause for rejoicing in the industry. Observers believe the point where earnings will cease to show year-to-year declines and will begin to show substantial gains.

A summary of the outlook for some other major industries follows:

IMF Votes Plan For Group of 20

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The International Monetary Fund today announced formal approval of a "Group of 20" nations to coordinate international monetary reform.

The IMF's plan to set up the new group required approval of member governments of the 120-nation organization.

An IMF spokesman said no dissenting votes were recorded against the proposal to establish the group, which is expected to hold its first meeting in Washington in late September.

The membership of the Group of 20 will be decided later, but it is expected that finance ministers of the major monetary nations and about 10 developing countries will be represented.

U.S. Company Taxes Increase in Fiscal '72

WASHINGTON, July 28 (Reuters).—Corporate income taxes increased by $1.9 billion in fiscal 1972 from the January estimates, the Treasury reported today in its analysis of the budget.

For the fiscal year, corporate taxes were $32.038 billion compared to $30.785 billion in fiscal 1971.

EEC Import Check

BRUSSELS, July 28 (AP)—The Common Market commission has decided to begin monitoring imports of Japanese desk-top electronic calculators and of raw aluminum from all countries, effective Aug. 1, an EEC spokesman said today. European competitors have complained that Japan had 74 percent of the calculator market last year.

Most analysts say that third-quarter earnings will certainly surpass those of the strike-affected like period last year. Nevertheless, third-quarter profits are not expected to compare favorably with this year's second quarter, primarily because of a price decline earlier this month.

ALUMINUM: Industry spokesmen say it is too early to predict third-quarter results precisely, but they are far from ebullient in their discussion of the period's prospects. Most analysts, however, point to a probable price upswing in the fourth quarter; that could offset the cost pressures that have been hampering the industry's profitability.

MACHINE TOOLS: Despite generally poor second-quarter earnings, optimistic industry executives note that the period was generally better than this year's first quarter, when several companies reported losses. The third quarter is traditionally not a strong period for the machine tool industry, because many companies close their plants for two weeks of vacation during July or August. Despite this it is expected that third-quarter earnings will show continued gains.

CHEMICALS: Industry leaders are forecasting good profit gains for the third quarter and the full year, although most qualify their optimism in one way or another. For example, James F. Tawney, president of Olin Corp., says, "There are a lot of clouds we have to get past before we can say the economy is truly on the upswing."

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT: Manufacturers reported rising profits in the second quarter and are expressing great optimism for the balance of the year. General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp. both expect record years. Big gains for both companies are being made in the areas of consumer products, equipment for electric utilities and some electronic components; both say, however, that sales of industrial-automation equipment are not yet picking up.

Dividend Curbs to Continue In '73, U.S. Group Decides

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The government said today that the nation's corporations will be expected to continue the voluntary limitations on dividend increases next year.

This means that companies will be asked to hold any increase in total dividends per share to 4 percent of the dividends they are paying this year. The committee on interest and dividends headed by Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur F. Burns decided on the 1973 guidelines.

The Committee Department has been using persuasion to get corporations to follow the guidelines and presumably that same procedure will be followed next year. Dividends are exempt from controls.

Profit Rules to Stay Meanwhile the Price Commission says as many as one-fifth of the nation's companies may be bumping up against allowable profit margins this year, but the agency will not relax its rules and may even tighten them.

What is likely to happen is that many companies will be forced to roll back prices voluntarily to make sure they do not exceed the profit-margin test by the end of the fiscal year.

Commission rules say that if a firm goes over its profit margin at the end of the fiscal year, it must reduce prices by three times the additional profit gain. The commission's profit-margin test provides that companies cannot exceed the rate of profit gained during the best two of the last three fiscal years.

GM Sales, Profit Hit Record in Quarter

DETROIT, July 28 (General Motors Corp.)—General Motors today became the last of the Big Four auto makers to report earnings for the second quarter and first half, and said they rose 27.5 percent and 16.7 percent, respectively. The second-quarter profit was a record, GM said.

Sales in the quarter were up 11.4 percent to a new high, while half-year sales increased 5.6 percent, GM said.

The company attributed the record results primarily to the strength of the motor vehicle market in the U.S., particularly the demand for trucks.

GM said its worldwide factory sales of cars and trucks in the second quarter totaled 2,226,000 units, a record high, and 1 percent above the previous quarterly record of 2,202,000 units set in the first quarter of last year and 5 percent above the 2,126,000 units in last year's second quarter.

N.Y. Prices End Week With a Timorous Finale

NEW YORK, July 28 (NYT)—Stock prices opened on a firm note and then eased in afternoon trading today, holding to the general pattern of the three previous New York Stock Exchange sessions.

The Dow Jones Industrial average ended 0.15 to 926.70 on modest volume.

This meant a timid finale to a week that started out with Monday's surge of 14.91 in the Dow—the best gain of 1972—in response to highly favorable economic news announced on the previous Friday.

Holiday Inns, the institutional favorite that plunged 7 1/2 yesterday after the release of disappointing earnings, slipped 7/8 to 41 5/8 in active trading. Shares of the nation's largest lodging chain sold today as low as 39 1/2.

United Inns moved down 7/8 to 33 1/8, after losing 1 3/4 in the previous session. The company operates 20 Inns under a license agreement with Holiday Inns.

The biggest price changes on the active list showed in Curtiss-Wright, up 3 3/4 to 43 1/8, and Engelhard Minerals, down 3/8 to 27 1/8. Meanwhile, Curtiss-Wright's Class A shares rose 5 1/2 to 54.

Curtiss-Wright, a volatile issue in recent weeks, has been a favorite of investors to apply the Wanzel rotary engine to pumps, compressors and generators. Ingersoll-Rand rose 3/8 to 64 1/4.

Engelhard, a strong market performer earlier this month, was affected adversely by reports that researchers at Bell Telephone Laboratories have found certain combinations of rare earth elements with manganese or cobalt to be as effective as platinum catalysts in removing carbon monoxide from automobile exhausts.

The basis for Engelhard's recent stock strength has centered in the use of platinum-based catalytic converters to control auto exhausts.

Molybdenum rose 3/8 to 15 3/8. It is a leading miner and processor of rare earth products. Molybdenum's common stock was the market's best performer, followed by its company's preferred issue, which rose 4 to 28.

Casualty Petroleum, the volume leader, gained 3/4 to 15 1/4. The company announced an agreement to supply Libyan gas condensate to Japan.

Prices eased in light trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex index dipped 0.02 to 26.74, while declines topped averages, 470 to 394. Turnover shrank to 2.77 million shares from 3.23 million yesterday.

PASSING THE BATON—Greek actress Maria Moschollou starts Olympic flame on trip.

Olympic Flame Starts 5,758-Kilometer Journey

OLYMPIA, Greece, July 28 (UPI).—Greek actress Maria Moschollou today lit the Olympic torch and Greek athletes sprinted along the road to Athens to start the flame on its 5,758-kilometer journey to the Olympic Games in Munich.

Miss Moschollou, dressed as an ancient priestess, put the torch into a concave magnifying mirror shortly before noon and within seconds, the sun's rays set it aflame.

The ceremony took place on an altar at the entrance to the ruins of the ancient temple of Hera here, where the first Olympic Games were held in 776 B.C.

Tribute Is Paid

After the torch and an olive branch were handed to John Kourkalexis, a Greek basketball player who is the first of the carriers of the flame, which will be relayed to a new athlete every kilometer, Kourkalexis ignited a flame on an altar in front of the Olympic Academy, paying tribute to Baron Pierre de Coubertin.

The heart of Coubertin, who initiated the modern Olympics in 1896, is buried in a white marble monument there.

Then the athlete set off. The flame will be transferred along the route, but not the torches, as each carrier will have his own torch. It will be the first time since 1936 the flame will be hand-carried.

Before reaching Munich on August 25, the Olympic flame will be hand-carried through Turkey, Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Austria.

The flame will reach Athens tomorrow, where it will burn all night on a special altar in the capital's stadium, where the first modern Olympics took place.

Detroit Sweeps Brewers

Lolich Gives Tigers a Start But Cash Provides Big Finish

NEW YORK, July 28 (UPI).—Detroit's Mickey Lolich, the top winner in the major leagues this season who was ired at not being the opening American League All-Star pitcher, gave the Tigers a start last night but had to be bailed out by Norm Cash.

Detroit swept a doubleheader from the Milwaukee Brewers, 3-2 and 8-5, at Milwaukee. Lolich, who went seven innings in the opener, was overshadowed by the Brewers' Bill Parsons, who got a one-hitter and a 2-0 lead into the ninth inning. But Mike Ferraro booted Aurelio Rodriguez's grounder with one out in the ninth and, after Jim Northrup struck out, Willie Horton singled and Cash took Lolich off the hook with a three-run blast, his 15th home run of the year.

Chuck Seebach got the victory in relief, his seventh against six losses, and Parsons' won-loss record was evened at 6-6. Lolich is 17-6.

The victories moved the Tigers 2 1/2 games in front of the second-place Orioles in the American League Eastern Division. Baltimore lost to Cleveland.

Bases-Loaded Single

In the second game, Ed Brinkman's bases-loaded single in a four-run eighth inning drove in two runs for the 8-5 victory, extending the Brewers' losing streak to five games.

The Brewers had scored four times in the first inning off Fred Holdsworth, making his major-league debut after being called up from Toledo of the International League. Trailing, 5-4, in the eighth, the Tigers' Al Kaline opened the inning with a double and, after Bill Freehan flew out, Horton was walked intentionally.

The Brown singled in Kaline with the tying run and Mickey Stanley singled to load the bases. Brinkman then singled to center field to drive home two, including the winning run.

After pitching brilliantly for eight innings, Vida Blue survived a Minnesota uprising in the ninth to post a 4-3 Oakland home victory.

White Sox 7, 6, Royals 3, 3

At Chicago, Roger Nelson, who pitched a four-hit shutout for Kansas City, broke up Stan

Batterson's bid for a no-hitter with a two-out single in the eighth inning and the Royals took the second game of a doubleheader, 3-0, from Chicago. The White Sox, paced by Dick Allen's 33d and 24th home runs, won the opener, 7-3, to give Wilbur Wood his 16th victory.

Indians 4, Orioles 3

Tom McCraw, a pinch hitter, slammed a two-run homer in the ninth inning off Pat Dobson to lift Cleveland to a 4-3 road victory over Baltimore.

Angels 5, Rangers 0

Larry Rittner lined a two-out double in the eighth to end Nolan Ryan's no-hit bid, but the fireballing California right-hander still chalked up his sixth shutout of the season, 5-0, over Texas at home. Ryan allowed two hits in winning his 12th game in 20 decisions.

Yankees 6, Red Sox 2

Winning pitcher Fritz Peterson started a two-run fifth inning rally with a single and got home-run support from Bobby Murcer and Johnny Callison as New York beat Boston, 6-2, at Yankee Stadium.

Cowboys 17½ Choice Over College Stars

By William N. Wallace

CHICAGO, July 28 (UPI).—The Dallas Cowboys are heavily favored, by 17 1/2 points according to one Las Vegas source, to beat the College All-Stars tonight in the annual game that marks the start of the pro football exhibition season.

The Cowboys will start the same line-up that won against Miami in the last Super Bowl game, with the exception of Ralph Neely, who broke a leg riding a motorcycle last October, at offensive tackle in place of retired Tony Liscio.

Roger Staubach, who has had an excellent training camp, will be the Dallas quarterback, but coach Tom Landry will again call the plays from the sidelines.

The All-Stars lost three defensive starters through injuries. Walt Patulski, Herb Orris and Clarence Ellis, and they are worried about defending against Staubach's passes.

Jerry Tagge, from Nebraska, will start at quarterback for the All-Stars.
